

One of the Hardest Things in Life Is for Man to Master Art of Quitting

By HAL BOYLE
New York, Sept. 20 — (AP)—One of the hardest things in life for any man to master is the fine art of quitting.

This 24-karat truth is pointed up by the decision of Joseph Louis, the eminent pugilist, to resume his former calling.

At the ripe old age of 34, having amassed enough get to cushion his declining years, Joe announced he was through with his precision fist-bombing. He decided to trade in his gloves on a typewriter and launch a new career as a columnist-commentator for a Harlem newspaper.

Tying a new job is no mental hurdle to Joe. He was a newsboy, shined shoes, ran errands, delivered ice and worked in an automobile factory before he found how easy he could quintuple his income merely by doubling his fists.

But now Joe has changed his mind again—has he many champions who wanted to quit at the top—and he's going to try one more fight next June, when he'll be 35.

"Just one more, Joe."

It's hard to resist that plea. Sometimes the plea comes from within a champion's own heart.

More often it comes from his rival, who wants to keep him in action to finish feathering their own nests.

It's true of politicians, businessmen and warriors as well as athletes. There's always a group that wants them to stay in there pitching after their own minds tell them it's time to step down.

"Just one more," they're told. "We need you. We can't win this time without you. Just once more."

It is hard to resist such flattering pressure, the "you're-the-only-one-whom-we-need" flattery. And so the aching muscle or the weary mind goes back "just once more" into the fray, and too often what happens is what happened to Jim Jeffries when he emerged from retirement for a flabby rendezvous with Jack Johnson at Reno in 1910, to Jack Dempsey when he took on Gene Tunney a second time, and to Napoleon when he met a fellow called "The Iron Duke" at a wide place in the road called Waterloo.

But quitting at the right time—at the peak—is even more difficult.

for the common man than it is for the champion in any field.

To the ordinary man, an enforced retirement isn't just a blow to his ego—it's usually a catastrophe caused by illness or accident. And planned retirement is to him a goal near the end of his life's run—a short dreamy interlude before death grabs him.

It's hard to quit. Perhaps the most gracious "quitter" of our day is Winston Churchill. He quits every time the voters toss him out, and goes off and writes some best-selling memoirs and paints some pictures.

Then, refreshed in spirits, Churchill rides back again into high public office on the changing tide, smiling and eloquent as ever and holding no resentment against the voters.

This unsinkable cork in the flood of modern history is the real political heavyweight of our times. He quits only to try again — and he's made more comebacks than you-vo.

Seek End to Palestine War U. S. Urges

By R. H. SHACKFORD
Paris, Sept. 21 (UP) — The United States urged the third general assembly of the United Nations today to seek an end to Arab-Jewish warfare in Palestine by supporting the proposals of the UN's assassinated mediator, Count Folke Bernadotte of Sweden, which provided for recognition of the Jewish state of Israel.

U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall formally proposed acceptance of Bernadotte's report even before the general assembly, meeting against a somber backdrop of expressed fear of another world war, has completed its organization.

Arabs, Jews and the 58 nations of the UN, Marshall said in an official statement, should accept Bernadotte's recommendations, which they entirely "as the best possible basis for bringing peace" to the Holy Land.

The general assembly convened in the plush Palais de Chaillot overlooking the Seine amid the greatest crisis since the war, in which attention of most delegates centered upon the cold war between Russia and the Western powers rather than on lesser problems such as Palestine.

Only three hours after the assembly opened, foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and France were to meet at the Quai d'Orsay, possibly to agree on a showdown action in the dispute with the Soviet Union which has its focal point in the Berlin crisis.

But Marshall seized upon the interest in and concern for the Palestine situation which followed the assassination last Friday in Jerusalem of Bernadotte to issue a formal statement in which he said that the Swedish mediator's conclusions regarding the Holy Land "are sound" and expressed hope that both sides would accept them in the spirit of fair compromise.

Bernadotte's recommendations were contained in a 135-page report which reached the UN almost coincidentally with news of his death. The report was made public yesterday.

In brief, it proposed recognition of the Jewish state in Palestine, a formal proclamation of the end of Holy Land hostilities, internationalization of Jerusalem under UN authority, giving Negev to the Arabs and Galilee to the Jews, a free port at Haifa and a free airport at Lydda, and Arab self-determination as the government in their area of Palestine.

In his statement, Marshall pointed out that no proposal for Palestine could satisfy all parties, but he added that Bernadotte " canvassed all possibilities and proposed as his last contribution toward world peace a sound basis for settlement."

Marshall's statement was released in the midst of opening formalities of the general assembly.

Dr. Brannen Resigns From University

Fayetteville, Sept. 21 — (AP) — Dr. C. O. Brannen resigned today as director of the University of Arkansas bureau research.

The resignation, submitted to Dr. Lewis Webster Jones, university president, will become effective Sept. 30.

Dr. Brannen gave no reason for his action and made no announcement regarding his plans for the future.

He had been connected with the university since 1925. He was a professor and head of the Department of Rural Economics and Sociology prior to 1943, when he was named director of the university's agricultural experiment stations.

Later in 1943 Dr. Brannen was named director of the bureau of research. In 1947 he served as a member of the army research commission in Germany.

Dr. Jones expressed regret that Dr. Brannen's long and useful association with the university and said no successor has been selected.

Arkansas Gains in Production of Fuel

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 21 — (AP) — California's refinery strikes were a factor in decreased American crude oil production during the week ended Sept. 18, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

The journal reported production averaged 5,300,000 barrels during the week, a drop of 181,860 barrels from the previous week's figure.

Truman Again Attacks 80th Congress

Aboard Truman Campaign Train Sept. 21 — (AP) President Truman told western Colorado voters today it seemed to him that everybody had enough of what he called the 80th do-nothing Congress.

He spoke to a station audience from a rear platform of his special train when it pulled into Glenwood Springs early this morning. It was the first speech of the day as he headed toward Utah and another major address on reclamation at Salt Lake City.

Several hundred persons were in their topcoats here and a band started playing as the campaign special rolled to a stop.

The president said some day coal and oil shale is going to have to be used to produce gasoline. A lot of shale deposits are near Glenwood Springs.

The Democrats, he said, went to go forward and not backward. President Truman enlarged his already grueling speaking schedule today in his "give 'em hell" campaign against the Republicans.

He announced plans to stump southward into North Carolina with two speeches in Raleigh on October 10.

Showing disdain for the strain on his vocal cords, Mr. Truman planned additional speeches in Utah today.

Yesterday he told Colorado voters the Democrats were "servants of the people" and the Republicans were "puppets of big business."

He declared at Denver that his administration had inherited "an almost impossible situation out of the war." He said he took over conditions "much more difficult to handle" than when there was wartime unity.

"It's hard to understand how we could continue to make the government run," Mr. Truman said. "But it did run. We had no riots, no bloodshed, no Ku Klux Klan, no 666,000 people to work. We succeeded in creating the greatest national income in the history of the world."

The president agreed to follow his physician's advice in swabbing his throat after his voice, hoarse from constant campaigning, temporarily spluttered out in a rear platform talk last night.

He makes his third major address tonight at Salt Lake City on reclamation around 9 o'clock (Central Standard Time). His route led through Glenwood Springs, Grand Junction in Colorado, and Price, Helper, Springville, Provo and American Fork, Utah. The train is due in Salt Lake City at 6 p. m., C. S. T.

The nation is pretty well set for the president's train platform appearances at the smaller cities.

He makes a chatty talk, tells the crowd if the vote is big enough he won't have to leave the White House and start looking for quarters "in this critical housing shortage" after November.

He tells them that a Republican administration will endanger the "common man," will turn to "spe-

Surrender of Hyderabad in India Probably Saved That Nation From Bloody Fighting

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Surrender by the Nizam of Hyderabad to the invading forces from the dominion of India may well have saved the Indian subcontinent such a bloodbath as that troubled land never before had experienced.

Certainly a continuation of the short-lived conflict threatened to precipitate wide-spread communal fighting which might have run the length and breadth of the great peninsula. It was the old, old story of Hindu versus Moslem—a story which has been written in blood for generations.

More than three-quarters of Hyderabad's population of 16,000,000 are Hindus, whereas his main under subpoena," McDowell said.

Weinberg told newsmen after the secret session he got the "impression that it was a routine inquiry."

He said he answered all questions asked him by members of the Un-American Activities subcommittee.

Weinberg's testimony was given as the investigators revealed that they may call off open hearings on Soviet atomic espionage to the Soviet Union, which is the most important of this country's closely-guarded secrets.

But they promised a "full and complete report" on a "shocking chapter" in the activities of Soviet spies.

Weinberg formerly was connected with the radiation laboratory at the University of California. He said he was the subject of a "routine inquiry" by the FBI when he knew Arthur Adams, described by the committee as one of the most important of Soviet wartime agents.

Weinberg said he did not know Adams. He also said he does not know Steve Nelson, Communist party chairman in the Western Pennsylvania district, who was assigned to party organizing work on the West Coast during the war.

Weinberg said that all he knew about Adams and Nelson was what he had seen in the newspapers.

Laney Seeking More Facts on Rail Proposal

Little Rock, Sept. 21 — (P)—Gov. Homer Laney is seeking additional facts on the proposal for the state of Arkansas to purchase the Missouri and Arkansas railway.

The chief executive will meet with a citizens committee here Thursday before making a decision on whether to call a special session of the legislature to consider state rehabilitation of the long idle road.

Laney said yesterday he would not call the general assembly into session unless convinced something could be accomplished and added that he still believes the session must not be necessary.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has ordered the line junked unless a purchaser ready to operate is found by Oct. 9.

"We'll Street" for guidance.

And then, with a smile, he asks if the crowd wants to meet his family.

There is a chorus of "yes" and a few "gohs."

And Mrs. Truman comes through the velvet-like curtain of the private car, smiles and waves. Daughter Margaret repeats the performance.

The Doctor Says:

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Vague discomfort in the abdomen and alternate periods of constipation and diarrhea are common signs of a condition called spastic colitis. It seems to be a disorder of civilization. It is rare among "uncivilized" people which suggests that it has a nervous origin related to the strain of present-day life.

Often patients report that they have suffered for a great many years with recurring attacks of discomfort or pain in the lower part of the abdomen. The attacks may last for several minutes, many days or even off and on for months. Pain of a crampy, gripping nature is often present. Frequently the abdomen feels bloated and gives characteristic gurgling sounds. These symptoms may be enough to disturb the sleep.

Constipation is often blamed for the trouble, but diarrhea may be present, too, at least once in a while. Unusual worry or anxiety often precedes an attack. People who keep themselves at high tension are especially liable to trouble. Fatigue and exposure to cold, tobacco, various foods, laxatives and many other things may also bring on attacks.

Treatment is Medical Treatment is medical rather than surgical. The mental worry or tension which is making the colitis worse must be tackled. Vegetable and fruit usually increase the irritation. Cooked cereals, milk and milk products, eggs and fish, custards and similar foods usually make up the bulk of the diet and decrease the irritability. Several medicines are helpful though not curative.

Spastic colitis does not affect the duration of life in spite of the distress it causes. Unfortunately many people who are afflicted with it also have a tendency to worry about their health in general. This adds to the difficulty of treating spastic colitis successfully.

QUESTION: What are the disadvantages of dicumaryl in the control of clotting inside the blood vessels?

ANSWER: Dicumaryl is a useful drug but takes some time before its action is apparent. It is also difficult to adjust the dose so that it will have exactly the desired effect without causing too much delay in clotting.

County Judges to Meet at Little Rock

Little Rock, Sept. 21 —(AP)—What part will county judges play in the Democratic state convention here Thursday and Friday?

That question is being discussed here today by the Arkansas Association of County Judges.

Sid McMath, Democratic nominee for governor, was to address the association today. The group will conclude its two-day meeting tomorrow.

Kansas City Gun Battle Fatal to 5

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 21 —(UP)—Five persons, including three police officers, a Negro gunman and a bystander — were dead today as result of a series of gun battles fought off when officers answered a routine call to quell a disturbance.

Two other policemen were wounded, one critically in the fray just before midnight last night.

Authorities were questioning George Bell, 33-year-old Negro, to determine whether he took part in the firing. Bell was captured early today and police threw a cordon around the Kansas City Negro section.

Lt. Charles Welch of the homicide bureau said Bell denied that he was in the apartment where the shootings took place. But Welch said three witnesses placed Bell there.

Bell's brother, William, 34, was the gunman who died under police bullets.

The officers killed were Sandy Washington, 26, Charlie Perrine, 30, both Negroes, and Charles Neaves, 46, white. Injured officers were Bill Wells, 34, and Keiffer Burris, 34. A bystander, Burton E. Warren, Negro, also was wounded, and died early today at a hospital.

The shooting started when the Washingtons and Neaves answered a routine complaint about a disturbance at the apartment of two Negro women, Alpha Russell and Gwendolyn King, about eight blocks from police headquarters.

The officers found a drinking party in progress. Among those present were the Bell brothers and the Russell and King women, and a girl named Ora Bell who was identified as George Bell's girl friend.

The officers told the Bell brothers they would have to go to headquarters to be booked for disturbing the peace, according to the police.

The women went for their coats, but instead, George pulled a shotgun from the closet and shot Neaves, according to one of the women. Washington turned to run down the stairs but was felled by another blast.

Neighbors, meanwhile, had called for more police. William ran out the front door and lay in ambush for them. The Russell and King women hid in a closet while the Bell girl and George Bell ran out a back door.

William Bell opened fire as officers Perrine and Longley drove up. "I ran inside the doorway and was protected by bricks," Langley said. "I turned just in time to see Perrine fall."

Burris and Wells drove up in another car. They ran out and ran toward the building as Bell fired at them repeatedly. Both were wounded.

A fourth police car arrived. Officers Earl Scott and Rodney Knight opened fire with a riot gun, a 38 automatic pistol and a shotgun. Bell was riddled in the fuselage and died instantly.

Warren, a bystander, was wounded when he began running from the scene and failed to obey an officers warning to halt. Police

'Barricade Against Death'

Residents of a Chicago housing project fought unsuccessfully for four years to have their street closed to traffic. When a year-old child was killed by a truck, they took matters into their own hands and erected this roadblock. Sign on dead baby's crib says "Keep Out—A People's Barricade Against Death."

DOROTHY DIX Betrayed Wife

When a wife finds out that her husband has been unfaithful to her, her first impulse is to break up her home, take her children and rush with her grievance to the divorce court. If she loves her husband, her world lies in ruins about her, and she knows that never again can it be the beautiful place in which she lived when she trusted her husband as she trusted her God.

Her very soul is torn to tatters with jealousy. She feels that she has been insulted and humiliated beyond endurance, for, as women judge women, the wife who cannot hold her husband has failed somehow as a woman. The pity of her friends, the shame of knowing that her husband is no longer interested in her and has forsaken her for glamour girls, the loneliness of solitary evenings, with nobody to speak to except the baby, get on the nerves of the wife of the philanderer until she finally comes to think that divorce is her only out, and that she would be once more young and beautiful and perfectly happy if she only had a divorce absolute.

So myriads of unhappy wives believe that divorce is the cure-all for all of their troubles, and they ask the courts to break up their marriages without ever stopping to count the cost. In their disappointment in their marriages not remaining love idyls and finding that their husbands are two-timers, they want to check the whole business and go back to Mother. They forget that marriage is a wife's career, her means of livelihood, and that many a philanderer is a good provider, and that there is a lot of consolation that a woman gets out of a comfortable home and a charge account at the best stores.

Count Cost
Continuing this theory that the woman who is married to a man with a wandering foot should sit down and do a little figuring before she lets her own feet carry her to the divorce court, is a letter from a wife who confronts this problem. She says:

"I am married to a man to whom every fluttering skirt is a signal to get up and follow, but I am not breaking up my home for these reasons: (1) Because we have two lovely little girls, age 3 and 4 years, and I feel that I would rather sacrifice my life as a forsaken wife than have them orphaned and to grow up in a home in which they would never know a father's love and care.

(2) "My husband's mother lives with us where she is very happy and contented, as she would not be anywhere else. She loves her son and adores the little grandchildren, and it would be a cruel thing to deprive her of the pleasure of being with them in her old age.

(3) "My husband is a good provider, and as I do not have good health I could not support the children and give them the advantages that their father does. (4) I have friends who love and respect me and who would be hurt by the gossip that a divorce always creates.

(5) I feel that this would not only affect my own life, but also that of my children. It is a matter of common knowledge that the children of divorced parents almost always have their natures warped.

(6) "While my husband is untrue to me, he is not unpleasant to live with. He is kindly, sympathetic, with a charming personality. So even if I do regret my marriage to a philanderer, by the help of God I am able to go on for the sake of those I love, and to make a happy home for my children.

My only idea to other women faced with this problem is to do the same, and I believe that if we do, we will not only be rewarded in this world but in the world to come."

To which I say fervently: Amen.

Dewey Also Pledges Aid to the West

By JACK BELL
Enroute to Denver with Dewey, Sept. 21 —(AP)—Western water and land development was pledged today by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in answer to President Truman's charge that the Republicans plot "sabotage of the West."

Following Mr. Truman into Denver, the Republican presidential nominee prepared in his second major speech of the campaign to answer to President Truman's charge that the Republicans plot "sabotage of the West."

The quotes were those of Paul Lockwood, the New York governor's secretary, who told reporters:

"The governor will discuss the need to conserve our natural resources and to develop our country for the future. He will pledge an administration that understands our land and water problems and that will keep our country strong as it works earnestly for peace in the world."

This added up to a direct reply to Mr. Truman's assertion that if the Republicans win in November they will "try to turn back the clock to the day when the west was an economic colony of Wall Street."

Republicans were visibly disappointed that rain spoiled their plans for an open air meeting in Des Moines last night when the first formal speech of the campaign for "a foreign policy based on the belief that we can have peace."

But a howling, whistling crowd estimated at 6,000 persons gave Dewey a rousing send-off in the jammed Drake University field house.

While Mr. Truman blamed the Republicans in his Denver speech for high prices, Dewey contented himself in Des Moines with setting forth a doctrine of his own for the next administration he hopes to head.

In his own words, it was:

"Foreign policy"—pledge to you a foreign policy based upon the firm belief that we can have peace. That policy will be made effective by men and women who really understand the nature of the threat to peace and who have the vigor, the knowledge and the

Bus Hearing Scheduled at Little Rock

Little Rock, Sept. 21 —(AP)—The Arkansas Public Service Commission today began hearing on an application of the Intercity Transit Company to operate passenger bus service between Little Rock and Fort Smith.

Two bus companies and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen are opposing the application.

Intercity seeks authority to experience required to wage peace successfully.

Congress—"I pledge to you an administration which will know how to work with the elected representatives of the people and that wants to work with them and will do so."

Teamwork—"I pledge to you a government of teamwork. The executive heads of your government will be ready to qualify for their positions and they will be given full responsibility to do their job without loose talk, factional quarreling or appeals to group prejudice."

House cleaning—"I pledge to you that on next January 20 there will begin in Washington the biggest unravelling, unsmiling, untangling operation in our nation's history."

Over-all policy—"I pledge to you that every act of mine will be determined by one principle above all others: Is this good for the country?"

Bearing out his aides' predictions, Dewey made it plain he isn't going to engage in a long-range debate with President Truman over charges made by the Democratic candidate against the Republicans.

Warren to Invade Missouri

En route with Warren to St. Louis, Sept. 21 —(AP)—Gov. Earl Warren provided President Truman's home state of Missouri today with indications that the Warren campaign was about to swing with increased vigor on Democratic party leadership.

A whopping audience in Tulsa, Okla., last night heard the Republican vice presidential candidate take his first full-fledged swing at the president.

Talking at Tulsa, however, the California lieutenant governor, "moderate" and "belly-thrust" and charged they proved only the incumbent administration had become a "shambles."

Warren took Mr. Truman to task for his campaign-opening remark, "I am going to give them hell."

The president meant by "them" everyone who disagreed with his administration. Warren declared, then he could have to include Democrats as well as Republicans.

"Such a threat can prove only one thing," Warren said.

"That the incumbent administration is a shambles; that it is dispirited, chaotic, quarrelsome and desperate."

Warren added, "After all, it is not only the subject of a book, but a book, by experience that people who start out with the publicity moved purpose to give somebody hell are usually the first ones to get their heads discovered in their own neck yards."

The Warren campaign trail led to a only this morning for a day of platform stops across Missouri. The Republican vice presidential candidate is due in St. Louis at 4 p.m. and is scheduled to speak at Kiel auditorium tonight.

Stops were scheduled at Alton, Springfield, Lebanon, Newburg,

Dewey Invites Latin Nations to Join Fight

By JACK BELL

Enroute West with Dewey, Sept. 20—(AP)—An invitation to Latin-American countries to join as "full partners" in halting the march of communism came today from Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

As the Republican presidential nominee pushed westward toward a major campaign speech in Des Moines tonight, he bore down on a "peace and freedom" theme.

His campaign train, dubbed the "Dewey Victory Special," paused in Chicago to receive a delegation of Latin-American representatives from the Inter-American Council of Commerce and Production meeting in Chicago.

Dewey read to a group of a dozen a formal statement expressing "my sincere hope that in the years to come we shall progress side by side not simply as good neighbors but as full partners."

He noted that the American republics "now are joined together not only in the pact of Rio de Janeiro to present our united strength against aggression, but also in the declaration made at Bogota condemning the aims and methods of international communism."

Struggling off vigorous attacks on the Republicans by President Truman, the GOP presidential nominee prepared to tell the country just what kind of a government he expects to run if he is elected in November.

His secretary, Paul Lockwood, gave reporters a brief preview. Lockwood said Dewey intends to "pledge his unswerving adherence" to "the basic principles and purposes of free government."

"He believes that they must be followed by the next administration in order to unite America and carry forward in a troubled world the hope of freedom and the living promise that men can be free and that free men can live in peace," Lockwood added.

This peace-and-freedom theme seemed unlikely to parallel proposals made by Henry Wallace, Progressive Party candidate for president toward the same objectives.

In fact, aides said they expect Dewey to pledge himself to a firm stand against any further widening of Russian authority in Europe or Asia.

Wallace had urged that this country get together with the Russians.

Dewey long ago made his stand clear.

He told audiences in Oregon even "before he was nominated that 'the battle against communism is going to be a long, tough one.'"

The Republican candidate had a busy day ahead of him. After a stop at Englewood, Ill., the 17-car special train left for Rock Island, Ill. Dewey then was to hike to Spencer Park for an open air meeting and a brief address.

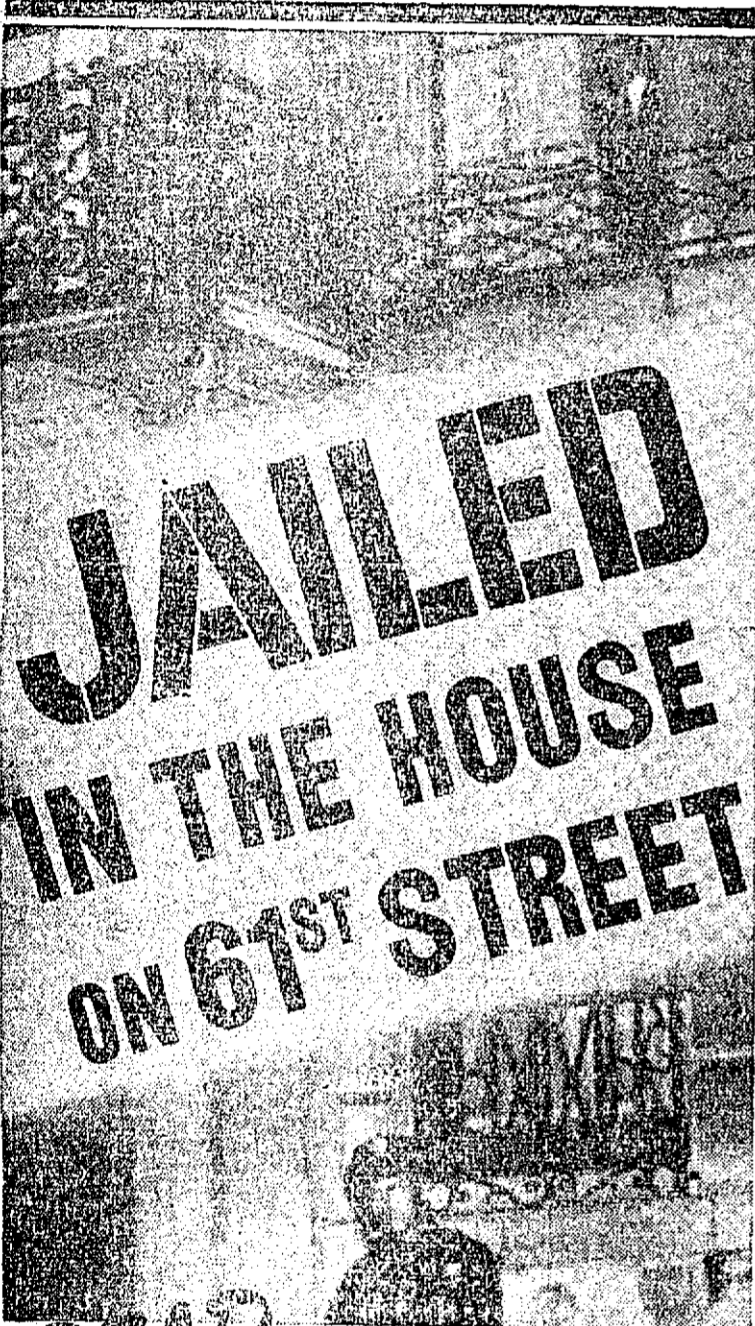

From Rock Island his train-borne 61 newsmen and cameramen—was to proceed to Davenport, Iowa, and pick up a party headed by Gov. Robert D. Blue of Iowa.

Senator George Wilson, Republican who is fighting a battle with Democrat Guy Gillette for an Iowa senate seat, was to climb aboard with Senator B. B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), national committeeman, Harrison Spangler and others.

With his arrival in Des Moines (5:35 p.m. EST), Dewey was to receive from Mayor Heck Ross award of order of the golden plow. After meeting with a group of farm editors, he was scheduled to speak at Drake University stadium. The speech will be broadcast (CBS-MBS) from 8 to 8:30 p.m., Central standard time.

Dixiecrats to Start Drive to Capture Arkansas

Little Rock, Sept. 20—(AP)—States Rights Democrats tomorrow will begin their drive to capture Arkansas' presidential electors.

The Arkansas supporters of Govs. Strom Thurmond and Fielding Wright, States Rights candidates for president and vice president, will hold a strategy session in the Albert Pike hotel at 2 p.m. They will map plans for trying to persuade the Democratic state convention to pledge electors to Thurmond and Wright instead of the national Democratic nominee, President Truman, and Senator Barkley.

The Democratic convention will be Thursday and Friday. A claim of about 100,000 votes for the States Rights movement, an indication of the strength of the movement, was voiced today by Anne Gutierrez, member of the Arkansas Free Enterprise Association executive committee and supporter of the States Rights movement.

Thurmond ran 21 of 22 county delegations to the Democratic convention which he led easily in favor of the States Rights candidates.

Truman on Smear Drive Says GOP

By JOSEPH NOLAN H.

United Press Staff Correspondent

Republicans signaled the opening of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's campaign today with a charge that President Truman is "humiliating" the nation by conducting a campaign of "fear and smear."

At the same time, Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath took a swing at the Republican record on federal aid to education. He said the 80th Congress refused to pass the president's education bill so it could afford to give "rich men another big tax cut next year."

Mr. Truman also chose the record of the 80th Congress as his theme today. He campaigned across Colorado with a warning to westerners that GOP congressmen were failing them on federal conservation and reclamation programs. His day's schedule called for at least eight speeches, the principal one from the steps of the state capitol in Denver.

The president was made by Dewey, the "smear" charge against the president was made by Dewey's campaign manager, Herbert Brownell Jr., the Republican presidential nominee headed for Des Moines, Iowa, for his campaign opening address tonight.

Brownell said he was confident Dewey would provide the nation with "a new kind of leadership." "Truman's hysterical and bewildered outburst" in Dexter, Ia., on Saturday, he said it was "humiliating to the nation" that its president was "incapable of resisting the temptation to indulge in tactics designed to divide the nation at the witch hour."

Dewey's secretary, Paul E. Lockwood, told newsmen aboard the westbound Dewey train that the Republican nominee would discuss "the basic principles and purposes of free government as he sees them" in his Des Moines speech tonight.

He will pledge his unswerving adherence to these principles," Lockwood said.

The 15-car train bore the legend "Dewey Victory Special," making it clear the Dewey camp had no doubt that the White House would be the ultimate loser.

Other political developments: Congressional control of House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, (R-Mass.), made it clear he doesn't have fears of some republicans might narrow out the GOP margin of power in the Senate.

Marlin said he expects the republicans to retain control of the Senate and also to gain about 20 seats.

Socialist—Socialist Presidential Candidate Norman Thomas said in Buffalo that Gov. Dewey's victory is a "near certainty."

If labor doesn't like the idea, he said, the "practical thing to do" is to pile up a large Socialist vote.

Thomas reported that he couldn't join Henry Wallace's third party because he considered it Communist-dominated.

Vice presidents—Gov. Earl Warren of California, the GOP vice presidential nominee, left New Mexico and began a swing through Texas and Oklahoma in search of votes for the Republican ticket. His democratic counterpart, Sen. Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, planned a week of campaigning through eastern industrial centers before turning south. A week from today he will invade the home grounds of the States Rights Democrats with a speech at Asheville, N. C.

Education—Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath said a "conservative" $10,000,000 has been spent by the federal government on education during the 16 years of the Roosevelt and Truman administrations. He said parents can rest assured that the educational needs of their children will be met if the Democrats win in November. McGrath assailed the GOP 80th Congress for failing to pass a $30,000,000-a-year federal aid to education measure.

Labor Disputes Continued Over U.S.

By The Associated Press

Labor disputes involving automobile workers in Detroit and maritime and oil workers on the West Coast continued today. But in New York the ranks of striking truck drivers declined and a threatened bus strike was averted.

In Missouri, 4,000 lead miners ended a 10-week strike.

A dispute between the Briggs Manufacturing Co. and 170 of its plant guards kept 60,000 other automobile industry employees idle.

The Detroit firm rejected a UAW-CIO settlement proposal as the strike entered its 13th day. It charged the UAW was, itself, guilty of a "wildcat strike" in refusing to work. The plant guards are members of an independent union. They struck Sept. 11 in support of demands for weekend premium pay and an increase in "preparation time" from five to 15 minutes. Other plants were threatened by lack of bodies.

Among other developments: Printers—At Indianapolis, Judge Luther M. Swygert began hearing a federal court in NLRB charge that the AFL printers union violated the Taft-Hartley act by leading the "Taft-Hartley" and the 10-week Chicago and Hammond, Ind., newspaper strikes. The union denies the charges.

Maritime—CIO stevedores prepared to move army cargoes at the New York harbor, the first time since the CIO longshoremen's union had a strike Sept. 2. The army would be done through special delegations which are split," he said.

Every county delegation interested in supporting the Thurmond-Wright ticket at the Democratic convention has been invited to send two representatives to the States Rights column.

Warren's Mild Tactics Shock Old Politicians

By BARNEY LIVINGSTONE

En Route With Warren to Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 20—(AP)—Campaign orthodoxy is taking a beating from California's earnest and amiable Earl Warren.

The Warren brand of homespun politicking is proving a shocker to veteran politicians.

It has confused—but impressed—the Republican audiences who came to hear about the hall, and then went away without having had more than a bare chance to whomp it up.

As the Republican vice presidential special rolled across the Texas landscape into Oklahoma today there was a growing conviction among Warren's followers that the Warren campaign this fall might set a new high in political unconventionalism.

There has been none of the classic "fourth of July" type of oratory in Warren's speeches.

There has been no distinctive Warren counterpart to the dramatic and angry Willie forelock, the biting Roosevelt sarcasm, or the Brown derby of Al Smith.

Even Warren's utterances have flared the elementary political maxim of keeping all the credit within the party.

"There are good Americans in both parties," he mildly tells his audiences.

It is only when Warren talks informally from the back of his train that he shakes hands after a formal speech, that his audiences warm up.

Then, his western mannerisms and folksy approach are those of a man genuinely glad to meet people—a characteristic which his few intimate associates say is basically true.

More Aid to West Truman Advocates

Denver, Sept. 20—(AP)—President Truman called upon Rocky Mountain voters today to join him in a fight against "Republican under-cover sabotage of the west."

He predicted that if the Republicans take over the government, they will try to turn back the clock to the day when the West was an economic colony of Wall Street.

Mr. Truman told the westerners their hope for "new developments in your agriculture, your industry and your commerce" lies in insuring the election of a Democratic administration "pledged to give you that aid and support."

Mr. Truman spoke from the grounds of the state capitol after a parade and impromptu speeches elsewhere in the city.

In the second major address of his current campaign swing he said the Republicans in Congress "consistently tried to cut the grounds from under our conservation program."

"There is a hard fight ahead," Mr. Truman asserted.

"We shall have to fight the special political propaganda of the special interests and the Republican leadership. We shall have to fight the millions of dollars that Wall Street is pouring into the treasury of the Republican party."

"We shall have to fight the Republican under-cover sabotage of the west."

Mr. Truman declared that "we of the Democratic party are eager for that fight."

"We are firmly determined to leave after us a land that is better than we found it."

While he laid special emphasis on hydro-electric power and other water development projects of the west, the president again attacked the Republicans on housing and price control issues.

He said his previous complaint that Senator Taft (R-Ohio) voted against a housing bill "with his own name on it." He referred to the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill.

The Republicans, he continued, killed the bill because "they wanted to leave housing under the control of profiteering big business."

"There is a lot of money to be made out of providing houses for the people—if private interests are allowed to exact exorbitant profits from the people."

And if the Republicans win, he said, the future of housing "would be in the hands of the same men who have run the housing bill—the men who obey the lobbyists of the selfish interests."

Turning to high prices, Mr. Truman said "the leaders of the Republican party" are to blame. If they are to blame, he said, they adopted the president said, "the prices of such things as meat, milk, steel and automobiles would have been stabilized."

agreement under contractors who are not parties to the labor dispute. Pay will be at the pre-strike rate of $1.67 per hour.

Oil—Federal mediators continued efforts to settle the 17-day-old walkout of West Coast CIO Oil Refinery Workers. Police investigated firing of a bullet into the home of an oil plant foreman at Rodeo, Calif.

Lead mining—The 19-week strike of 4,000 CIO mine, mill and smelter workers against the St. Joseph Lead Co., which operates mines in southeastern Missouri, collapsed. Union members voted yesterday to go back to work, and a spokesman said he assumes the company will accept a contract which expired in July. The strike was over fringe issues.

Trucking—the number of striking truck drivers in the New York metropolitan area declined as the AFL leaders urged a return into its 20th day. Some 6,000 members of local 697 have returned to work under individual contracts granting a 17 1/2-cent pay raise. About 3,000 members of the local 697 still idle, and some 1,000 members of local 23 have struck for a 25-cent increase.

Bus—A threatened strike which would have stopped service on three New York City bus lines leaving 30,000 passengers has been averted by a pay increase. The bus lines prepared to put into effect a one-cent fare increase which will permit granting of 24-cent-an-hour wage hikes. The Public Service Commission authorized the "interim" fare raise.

Few Realized Czech Seizure Was Forerunner to Bloody Fight Between the World

By Dr. WITT MacKENZIE

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

(The following is the last of four articles on the anniversary of British Prime Minister Chamberlain's world-rocking attempt to appease Hitler, as witnessed by the writer)

Hitler made his triumphal entry into Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland on October 3 over roads strewn with flowers by rejoicing citizens of German blood who now were being annexed by the Reich.

I went along as a reporting observer, and it was in many ways an unhappy assignment. The little republic was like a personal friend. I had been present at his birth in Paris in 1918, had been her guest for several wonderful weeks in 1920—had dined with her founder and president, the great Dr. Thomas Masaryk, in the presidential palace at Prague.

And here she was at the mercy of a throwback to the Huns. The position would have been even more shocking had we known that which was responsible for this Hitlerian annexation was also the forerunner of the German world-war invasion a year later, and finally of the Communist conquest of 1940.

Hitler used the ancient frontier city of Eger as the loudspeaker through which he informed not only the Sudetenlanders but the whole world:

"Never will this land be torn from the Reich!"

Perhaps that blatant boast might have come true, had the dictator not been filled with the inordinate ambition to overrun the world and nazify it. Anyway, he made his declaration from a rostrum on a grandstand erected at one side of the cobble square of this old town. The cable-windows of the weather-stained houses were jammed with spectators, and down below thousands of folk stood shoulder to shoulder, gazing towards their "liberator" and the impressive array of German flags flying from towering standards, as was the Nazi method of adding to an impressive scene.

I stood directly back of Hitler as he made his dashy promises and flung fresh defiance at the world. It was hard to take, and that was no place for a freedom loving American. I had seen much of the Nazi chief, but this was the last time I ever encountered him. And that caused me no regrets.

After the celebration at Eger I made a great and protracted swing through Poland, Hungary and all the Balkans, studying the situation with particular reference to the Hitlerian development. Everywhere the story was the same: Hitler held virtually all that vast area in the palm of his wicked hand. Quite apart from the armed might of the Reich, Germany had an unbreakable economic stranglehold on those countries. Why he couldn't be satisfied with such vast power, I never passed the understanding of man.

When I finally arrived back in London via the Balkans, Italy and France I had found the answer to a lot of questions, but there was one new development of which I wasn't sure. The attitude of England and France towards Hitler seemed to have undergone a change. Accordingly I took my problem to one of the great figures of the British government. I hadn't met him before, but he was kind enough to receive me even though my visit delayed his appearance in Parliament some half hour. I put my problem to him bluntly:

"I have not come for an interview, because I know you cannot grant one. But I have sensed what seems to be the beginning of a change in British sentiment and policy towards Germany. I shall be grateful if you can tell me whether I am right, and if I am right, what it means."

"You are right," he replied. "We reluctantly have come to the conclusion that the policy of appeasement is a failure. We reluctantly have come to the conclusion that Hitler is not susceptible to any moral influence. He is a man with a dangerous obsession. We have decided that we must smash him. We hope to do it by economic or political means. But if these fail, we shall use force."

The democracies finally had seen the truth, but they had closed the barn door after the horse was stolen. Had they been firm when Hitler first started to bully them, we probably should have escaped World War II. They wouldn't have had to march their armies to check the butcher—just stand up to him.
